Inclusive Community Driven Methodologies in Practice: Researching Vulnerable Populations

Date: 24th May 2019, 2pm - 5pm

Location: Graduate School Training Room, third floor of Cornwallis East

Description: Building on experiences carrying out interdisciplinary activist and community driven research using both qualitative and quantitative methods, this workshop will highlight the main approaches and give practical examples of projects carried out in South and East Asia. The workshop will focus on strengths and challenges in using these methods and aim to equip participants with skills to design and carry out their own projects using these methods.

Trainer: The workshop will be led by Trude Sundberg, Lecturer in Social Policy (SSPSSR, Kent)

Open to: Kent and external Postgraduate Researchers, Postdoctoral Researchers, Early Career Researchers and Academics of any discipline.
