

CONSIDERING POSTGRADUATE STUDY?

Brussels

Paris

Canterbury

Summer Schools in Brussels, Paris and Canterbury

Open to students and professionals, Kent's 2-week summer schools combine a superb intensive study abroad experience with the chance to study for interest, credit, professional training or as preparation for postgraduate learning.

Why choose a Summer School at Kent?

- Study at one of the UK's leading research-intensive universities
- Wide choice of subjects
- Fantastic UK and European locations
- Study with students from around the world
- Accommodation available
- Exciting social programme

The Summer Schools run in June, July and August 2017.

www.kent.ac.uk/summerschools

University of Kent

The UK's European university

2017 SUMMER SCHOOLS

Brussels

Europe and the World

18 June – 1 July 2017

How does the European Union (EU) act as a global organisation in today's world? Understand the main challenges facing the EU and debate with policy makers from institutions such as NATO and the European Parliament.

Canterbury

European Security and Foreign Policy

18 June – 2 July 2017

Focus on contemporary security issues facing Europe today and how European states are adapting their security role both within and beyond the European territory.

Global Business in a Dynamic Environment

18 June – 2 July 2017

Explore the core theories and activities involved in international business through policies and research and the complexity of decision making on a global scale.

Quantitative Research

18 June – 2 July 2017

Study the core elements of statistical analysis covering a range of quantitative skill areas including regression, contingency tables and continuous data in a problem-based learning environment.

Architecture Summer School

2 – 16 July 2017

Take part in presentations, design workshops, lectures and site visits and become part of a creative community that comprises of well-respected researchers, highly skilled architects, engineers and design professionals.

Medieval Canterbury

2 – 16 July 2017

Transport yourself back to the medieval society through the lens of Canterbury and Kent. Take part in guided visits, workshops and group seminars exploring medieval documents, artefacts and landscapes.

Biotechnology

16 – 30 July 2017

Gain cutting-edge research skills and expertise in this ever-growing and increasingly important scientific discipline. Work on a project to produce therapeutic proteins to target specific diseases including transfection, expression, purification and functional analysis.

Investigating the Social Mind

16 – 30 July 2017

Investigate recent research into Psychology relating to the 'social mind' and how this influences people's thoughts and behaviours. You will gain a key insight into an important aspect of the human psyche.

Molecular Biology and IVF

30 July – 13 August 2017

Gain cutting-edge research skills and expertise through exploring the process of generating IVF embryos, chromosome analysis and fluorescence in-sit hybridisation.

Paris

Revolutions

16 – 29 July 2017

Explore Paris through tailored seminars on the theme of Revolutions given by experienced academics; follow in the footsteps of iconic artists and visit major sites such as the Palace of Versailles, UNESCO and the Picasso Museum.

Law Critical Theory

26 June – 7 July 2017

PhD level only. A unique intellectual experience for early career academics and research students to work intensively with carefully selected thinkers outside the formal institutional frame.

Fees and funding

Prices start at £1,250 and are dependant on the course chosen – see website for details. Discounts of £150 are available if you book and pay in full by 5 May 2017. A range of scholarship opportunities are available for Kent and non-Kent students as well as discounts when studying more than one course. Applications to apply for a scholarship are open until 31 March 2017.

Brussels Summer School students are entitled to 10% discount if they subsequently enrol on a Master's degree at the Brussels centre.

How to apply

Complete the online application form at www.kent.ac.uk/summerschools