

Medieval and Early Modern Studies

University of
Kent

MA Programme – Online Open Event

16th November 2023 10am PST / 1pm EST / 6pm GMT

Are you interested in exploring the world of pre-modern Europe at graduate level? If so, the University of Kent's Centre for Medieval and Early Modern Studies (MEMS) could be the perfect fit for you. Based in the ancient city of Canterbury, we are one of Europe's leading interdisciplinary institutes for the study of the medieval and early modern past. Our expertise stretches from Late Antiquity to the eighteenth century, encompassing History, Literature and Languages, Palaeography, Art History, Material Culture, Archaeology and Performance Studies.

Our MA programme equips students with uniquely valuable research skills, with an abundance of 'hands-on' experience in Canterbury's world-famous archives, libraries and museums. Globally recognised as an exceptional foundation for doctoral study, our MA is also a highly regarded pathway into heritage, educational and media sectors.

Want to hear more, including about funding opportunities? Join us on 16th November for our 30 minute online open event. Register with the QR code below. All welcome!

To learn more about MEMS, visit:
<https://www.kent.ac.uk/medieval-early-modern-studies>

Follow us:

  @mems_ukc

 @memsunikent

