Supporting your research

Open access

Publishing open access maximises the impact of your research.

We can advise and explain about:

- your funder's open access policy
- Research Excellence Framework (REF) compliance
- the differences between Green and Gold publishing routes
- Article Processing Charges (APCs)
- Creative Commons licensing options

Kent Academic Repository (KAR)

KAR is our institutional repository. It helps others discover and access your work.

We can help you add your work to KAR with one to one or group training.

Research Data Management

We offer training, support and advice for managing your research data at all stages of the research cycle:

- from compiling a Data Management Policy at the proposal stage
- to disseminating and archiving your results at the end of your project

Open Researcher and Contributor ID (ORCID)

ORCID is a unique persistent digital identifier that distinguishes one researcher from another and allows you to tie all your research together in one place.

We can help you set up and manage your ORCID.

Depositing your thesis

We can help you choose the level of access to give to your PhD, MPhil or MA-R dissertation or thesis.
