

Do you study a Science, Technology, Engineering or Mathematics (STEM) subject?

Researchers at Queen's University Belfast are looking for people who research or study in a STEM field to take part in this survey. It should take 15 minutes to complete.

You could win an Amazon voucher worth £20.

You will be asked to read an article about workplace issues in STEM, then answer some questions about it and your opinions more generally. You will also be asked a few demographic questions. Responses are 100% anonymous. This study has received approval from the local Research Ethics Committee and is being conducted using open science practices.

Find out more:

<https://bit.ly/3vtUyLk>

